

King Systems has developed and installed two phases of technology in both of our homes. Adam Zatorski managed the development and installation of the work. He is able to understand our needs, develop solutions, and communicate options. Adam and his staff were very efficient, and we were not inconvenienced during the installation. The work was completed on schedule without over-runs. Also, he has always been readily available to address any questions or issues. We are obviously satisfied with the work as we are considering phase III at both homes.
