

John C. Hanley
Direct Dial: 303 223 2065
Jhanley@rplaw.com

July 30, 2012

To Whom It May Concern:

Approximately two years ago, with the help of our architect and contractor, we identified and interviewed three AV design firms to design and implement sophisticated AV systems in each of our four largest conference rooms. After thoroughly vetting each company and meeting the personnel from each company that would actually complete the work, we chose King Systems to design and implement the AV systems for our law firm and we couldn't be more pleased.

King Systems brought to life what was only a vision in the design phase and, with large thanks to David King and his team, this dream has become a reality. They were great to work with...all their engineers are smart, knowledgeable, efficient and excellent communicators. They had an ownership mentality, which we came to greatly appreciate. They looked out for us throughout the project and always kept our best interests in mind. We are convinced their knowledge, experience and careful work saved us time and money along the way.

In fact, after holding a very successful continuing education program just last week where over 100 people were in attendance, we were reflecting upon the outstanding job King Systems did in designing and implementing the AV systems in our space. Thanks to King Systems and their team, each of our conference rooms work beautifully and this company is to be congratulated on the competence, skill, care and resourcefulness with which they completed this work for us.

David King, Glenn Harrison, Adam Zatorski, Lee Newton, Mike Rentos, Bryan Flanagan and Nicci Moralez are now like family...people here know them, trust them and we have all become very fond of them... we can't imagine going forward without their special talents.

We have had the opportunity to recommend King Systems to several other firms who were or are building out new space and needed AV design services and we will continue to recommend King Systems whenever we can. They have created an excellent firm and we will enthusiastically serve as a reference for any prospective clients they may have.

Sincerely,

John C. Hanley
Executive Director
DMR, LSP & JCH